

Dr. Bhamati Viswanathan
Biography 2017

Bhamati Viswanathan is a Legal Fellow who joined the Center for the Protection of Intellectual Property (CPIP) in 2016. Her academic work has primarily focused on the centrality of copyright, trademark, patents and trade secrets to creative and innovative industries. At CPIP her research and scholarship extend to consider the full array of intellectual property rights and protection; and her policy, advocacy and outreach activities emphasize the vital importance of secure and effective intellectual property rights to creative and innovative ecosystems both domestically and abroad.

Bhamati earned her S.J.D. and LL.M. from University of Pennsylvania Law School, and her J.D. from University of Michigan Law School. She holds a B.A. in English and French literature, cum laude, from Williams College.